

Citizens of two nations

Herald Sun, Edition 1 - FIRSTFRI 18 MAY 2001, Page 009

DHS-20010518-1-009-4182974V17

AUSTRALIANS may soon be allowed to take out citizenship of another country, without losing their Australian passports. Immigration Minister Philip Ruddock said yesterday the Government was looking favourably on a report by the Australian Citizenship Council that Australians could take on dual nationality. The council said that the advantages were found to outweigh the disadvantages. Mr Ruddock said the community would be consulted before a final decision was made.