For the last seven years, the Southern Cross Group has consistently lobbied Canberra to have Australian citizenship law reformed. Among other things, it has made numerous submissions to the Australian parliament, government departments and written many letters to parliamentarians, as well as using the media to help in its campaign.

During that period the SCG has also provided information to thousands of individuals in the Australian diaspora via its website, its regular e-bulletins and snail mailings to people with no internet. In addition, every day, SCG volunteers answer a large number of personal queries from Australians and former Australians all over the world, concerning citizenship and other topics of concern to expatriates.

Our work has paid off. The Australian Citizenship Act 2007 which commenced on 1 July 2007 means that an estimated 100,000 individuals outside Australia are now newly eligible to apply for Australian citizenship.

We are an entirely volunteer-run, global non-profit organization. We have no paid staff members. The overheads we incur in our work are usually met by our volunteers themselves or by donations from those who appreciate our work.

You can help us to continue helping those in the Australian diaspora by making a donation.

The SCG is not a legal entity in the United States. However our USA Coordinator, Robyn Stephenson, maintains a bank account for the SCG in the US. We try to meet expenses incurred by the SCG in the US out of that bank account. Such expenses include postage costs, stationery, copying, telephone costs, website hosting fees and other sundry items.

To make a donation, please make your cheque payable to "Robyn Stephenson". We suggest an amount of US$ 20, but any donation of any amount will be very gratefully received!

Cheques should be sent to:
